“Leveraging an existing large-scale safe water program to deliver nutrition messages at a low marginal cost”

Please join us in welcoming Samantha Bastian and Chris Austin of Evidence Action as they give an informal presentation of Evidence Action’s NEEP-funded evaluation, “Leveraging an existing large-scale safe water program to deliver nutrition messages at low marginal cost.” Through this project, Evidence Action is providing information on complementary feeding to households with children aged 6 through 24 months, and will then estimate the impacts of home visits and the salience of informational posters on children’s anthropometric indicators, as well as on nutrition knowledge and practices and consumption decisions.
