Please join us in welcoming Paul Hewett as he gives an informal presentation of The Population Council’s NEEP-funded evaluation, “Enhanced evaluation of an educational nutritional curriculum among adolescent girls in Zambia.” This study—a randomized cluster evaluation of the Adolescent Girls Empowerment Programme in Zambia—includes weekly “safe-spaces” meetings in which girls interact with each other and work through guided lessons with a mentor. Embedded within the program is a nutritional curriculum that focuses on key issues in adolescent and nutrition health. The enhanced evaluation will add critical elements to improve outcomes for adolescents and their children, strengthen the impact evaluation, and increase the research dissemination of the nutritional component.
